Want an office you love?

Do you wake up and think, "I get to go to work" or "ugh, I have to go to work?"

Would you like to play a leading role in improving the office environment for patients, dentist, and all team members so that it becomes an office you love and get to work in?

Need help creating an effective overall plan for positive change?

Do you, as the leader, have a clear sense of the top three areas of concern that are jointly shared by you and the entire team? Not sure? Want to find out?

Having difficulty in knowing where and how to start?

Are you creating specific, prioritized, and achievable goals? Do you know how to implement those goals and gauge your success in each area? Are you tapping into the knowledge and experience of your team members? Do you feel that you and your team share a common vision/mission for your practice?

Are you taking time to celebrate your successes?

Do you and your team take time to "smell the roses?" Are you viewed by your team as its coach/cheerleader, or as the judge/critic? Do you know when you have reached team goals so that you know when to celebrate?

As a dentist for over 30 years, I have 'walked in your shoes.' I understand your challenges and concerns. I know what it takes to create a highly successful practice and an 'office I love.'
